LOS ANGELES MAYOR CRACKS AT HOUSE IN TIDELAND VOTE

Plans for harbor development and improvement of city and county beaches, visited by 18,000 persons annually, can go forward if the national Senate goes along with the action just taken by the House of Representatives in approving the Tidelands Bill, Mayor Fletcher Bowron said in Los Angeles yesterday.

More than 100 Hi-Y boys met at Narbonne High School Tuesday night in a joint meeting of the Torrance Area Y.M.C.A. clubs to hear Special Agent Emory Goodnow of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The F.B.I. man told the club of the organization of the bureau, its functions and jurisdictions. He also related experiences that agents encountered in several cases of crime against the United States government.

The Narbonne Hi-Y Club acted as host to the meeting and Dallas Livingston-Little, club advisor, presided. Clubs represented included Narbonne, Torrance, Chapter 1; Torrance Chapter 11 and Redondo Beach. Visitors came from the San Pedro "Spartans" and the Banning Hi-Y clubs.

CHECK GUIDES

Be certain your rod carries no cracked guides, especially if they are the agate or glass type. The sharp edge of a broken guide can slice a line as quickly as a razor.

Denying that the Tidelands Bill was for the benefit of the oil companies, the Los Angeles mayor said that the California beaches have a big stake in tide and submerged lands on which extensive public improvements have been created.

"The state and local government receives much more of the income from oil produced from tidelands than private interests," Mayor Bowron indicated.

"The action of the House of Representatives makes secure a municipal investment in excess of $50,000 in Los Angeles harbor," he added.

Help For All
"In the past there has been a misapprehension on the part of certain persons in high official positions in Washington and shared with a considerable proportion of the people that the Tidelands Bill was exclusively to benefit the oil companies. This is not the case."

The mayor made the statement upon being informed that the House had just passed the Tidelands Bill by a vote of 257 to 29.

An authoritative new booklet to aid householders in removing fire hazards from their homes has been prepared by the National Board of Fire Underwriters for the 1948 Spring Clean-up Campaign.

Entitled, "Spring Clean-up Stops Fires," the pamphlet lists a 12-phase program to make every home safe from fire. It also tells how citizens can join with their neighbors to remove eyesores and improve the health and appearance of the community.

Memorial Day Parade, Service Plans Revealed

A committee composed of representatives of the City of Torrance, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, Gold Star Mothers, Women of the Moose, Lion's Club and Rotary Club met recently in the Welfare Center to discuss plans for the Memorial Day services.

It was decided that Memorial Day services will be held on Monday, May 31, with a parade followed by a service at El Prado Park. The parade will start from Cabrillo and Carson, thence to Cabrillo and Sartori, down Sartori to Post avenue, west on Post to Cravens, and South on Cravens to El Prado Park.

"We request that all organizations in Torrance send at least their colors and a color guard and actually participate in this service," J. G. Caldwell, chairman, said.

"The memorial service at El Prado park following the parade will be very impressive, with a veteran from Torrance delivering the principal address of approximately 15 minutes duration. The three religious faiths, Catholic, Jewish and Protestant, will each be represented with a 10 minute devotional talk."

The Torrance Area Youth Band will participate in the affair. There will be music by the choirs from all churches and other musical numbers are promised.

Every individual and every group is invited and requested to join us in this memorial service.
